A Word About Our Rattan Furniture

RATTAN, an ancient wood of the Far East, is of the palm family and grows several hundred feet in length, intangling itself in the trees of the tropical jungles. The use of this material in furniture making dates back several centuries, but is comparatively new in this country. It is not hollow like bamboo, but a solid, fibrous, light-weight wood that is rugged and serviceable, yet beautiful to behold when styled into furniture by the craftsmen at CLARK CASUAL.

CLARK CASUAL uses only the finest Philippine rattan for its furniture. Each piece of furniture is constructed with countersunk steel screws. Joints are tightly fitted for strength and beauty. Genuine peel wrap is standard on all pieces to impart beauty and the true feeling for which rattan furniture is noted. Pirelli webbing set in an oak frame gives assurance for lasting and comfortable seating. Pigmented oil base stains are hand rubbed into each piece of furniture, for a deep lustrous finish. A generous finish coating retains the deep lustre for many serviceable years. These are just a few of the specifications that Clark Casual insist upon for quality furniture. There are many more. CLARK CASUAL has created rattan casual furniture which retains its elegance and meets the test of time . . . by its design, style, comfort and unexcelled craftmanship. Unique designs from the stately Spanish Grandee to the romantic Oriental Sumiya, go to make CLARK CASUAL a recognized leader in rattan furniture. Not forsaking the basic belief that furniture is meant to be used . . . utmost attention has been given to the construction of each piece of furniture to insure its comfort and long life. Superior hand-rubbed finishes, all screw construction and Pirelli rubber strap underseat base are your assurance of the finest in rattan furniture.
